

Transportation

Flying

Reaching The Sinkhole Conference is easy. There are many inexpensive flights into San Juan's Luis Muñoz Marín Airport (airport code SJU), which has direct connections to many other major US airports through dozens of regional to international airlines. For more information about the airport, visit <https://www.san-juan-airport.com/>.

Ground Transportation: Hotel Shuttles

There are no shuttle buses from the San Juan airport to any hotels in the city. You must either hire a taxi or rent car. We strongly recommend taxis.

Ground Transportation: Taxis

Taxis can take you to the Sheraton Old Juan in about 25-30 minutes from the airport. If you stay at other hotels, you can take taxis to the Sheraton Old Juan for the conference, but be aware that traffic is often busy and slow in the city, especially in the old part of the city where the conference will be located. You may experience problems in arriving late to sessions, courses, trips, and to breakfasts that are included as part of your conference registration. For more information about taxis from the airport and San Juan taxis in general, visit <https://www.san-juan-airport.com/taxi.php>.

Ground Transportation: Rental Cars

If you plan to enjoy some vacation days in Puerto Rico before or after The Sinkhole Conference outside of San Juan, you should consider renting a car. Most things you'll likely want to see in San Juan are an easy walk from the Sheraton Old Juan. Remember, your discount rates at the hotel extend from three days before The Sinkhole Conference to three days after. If you want to visit the Puerto Rican karst on your own, renting a car is the best way. The roads are generally easy to travel and traffic is usually reasonable once out of San Juan. For information on rental cars available from the San Juan airport, see <https://www.san-juan-airport.com/car-rental.php>.
